

Weather Forecast

The final part of this project will also require the weather scenario cards. After the weather systems have been drawn on the map, the students will then write up a weather forecast in the style of an actual weather reporter. Using the communication guide provided, or in their own words, the students will write a paragraph describing the weather conditions present on the map.

For the final draft, have them write the paragraph on the speech bubble. Then mount it with a drawn or photographed picture of the student posing as a newscaster next to the weather map. For the one to the right, I had the students use the clipart person and attach a picture of their own head.
